HOLLYWOOD BOWL

AN EVENING AT THE HOLLYWOOD BOWL

A picnic dinner and then a concert under the stars has been a Los Angeles tradition since the 1920s. Nestled in a natural amphitheater in the Hollywood Hills, the Bowl is the summer home of the Los Angeles Philharmonic. Mid-week shows are generally classical, but there are also many pop nights and jazz performances. The gala season runs from July to September with several shows ending in a fireworks spectacular. Consider the thrill of hearing the Los Angeles Philharmonic and the Hollywood Bowl Orchestra as they are joined by such greats as Barry Manilow, Johnny Mathis, Tony Bennett, and others. From Beethoven to Brahms – from Gershwin to Mancini, don't miss out on a special night at the Bowl.
