STEMS and GEMS IN DOWNTOWN L.A.

LOS ANGELES FLOWER MART

In 1913, a group of flower growers and sellers started L.A.'s flower district just a few blocks northwest of its current location. Over the years, as demand for fresh flowers increased, Los Angeles' flower district became the largest in the United States. Today the Los Angeles Flower Market is one of the leading suppliers of flowers to local businesses, residents and people around the world. This tour is fully guided and begins with a stop in the flower district where you'll have time to visit with the vendors and pick up some blooms at discount prices.

THE JEWELRY MART

At this iconic downtown location, you'll find great deals from over 3,000 of the world's leading importers, manufacturers, designers and wholesalers of diamonds and diamond jewelry, gold jewelry, high end watches, silver jewelry, pearl jewelry, amber jewelry, jewelry engravers and repair and precious gem dealers, all located in the historic center of downtown Los Angeles.

NO-HOST LUNCH AT GRAND CENTRAL MARKET

Experience the international diversity of Los Angeles at the Grand Central Market. Offering more than 50 food stalls of fresh fruits, vegetables, meats, poultry and fresh fish from California and around the world, the Grand Central Market has been a hub of bustling activity since 1917.
